_____ is requesting Perfector procedures. The Perfector was developed at London University in 1992 following the discovery of minute electric current in cell membranes in 1991. The Perfector regenerates tissue and revives cells. Clinical studies have proven that the Perfector rectangular wave of 80 microamps and 0.8Hz was the optimal value resulting in the most visibly observable difference from one week to the next in terms of rebuilding thinner parts of the skin, filling in wrinkles and lifting sagging muscles. Studies have also shown that the values of the Perfector Ramp wave (50 microamps and 300Hz) combined with the Sine wave of 500 microamps and 500 Hz was very effective in healing Rosasea, Melasma, age and pregnancy spots, as well as other skin discolorations and pigmentations

Invented by Gerry Pollock, co-inventor of the first pacemaker, the Arasys unit (fARAdic SYStem), developed at London's South Bank University, Technopark, is already being used in health clubs and beauty salons for those who want to lose weight without the strenuous effort.
